The MFNM Congress Rescheduled

The 4th World Congress on Maternal, Fetal & Neonatal Medicine
(MFNM 2025)

has officially been rescheduled. This isn't a decision we took lightly. In response to recent insights, we've decided that this extra time will allow us to deliver a more impactful, relevant event for all attendees.

We're excited about what's ahead and appreciate your understanding as we work to make the Congress our best one yet.

We'll keep you updated with all the details moving forward.

Is MFNM 2025 for you?

If you're involved in maternal and neonatal care – whether as a geneticist, neonatologist, perinatologist, obstetrician, pathologist, maternal fetal medicine specialist, reproductive medicine expert, or a resident in these fields – this congress is for you!

We also welcome endocrinologists and industry professionals who are playing a pivotal role in shaping the future of maternal and fetal health.

Come to MFNM 2025 to connect, learn, and drive innovation!

Why You Can't Miss MFNM 2025

MFNM 2025 is where professionals from across the maternal, fetal, and neonatal fields come together.

It's a chance to join discussions that bridge various disciplines, from neonatology to reproductive medicine, fostering a shared understanding and approach.

Dive into sessions that are anything but ordinary.

From in-depth postgraduate courses to hands-on workshops, you'll get the latest on topics like genetics, the impact of the environment on reproduction, and even how AI is revolutionizing care for moms and babies.

At our workshops, it's all about applying what you learn directly to your work, whether that's improving neonatal care techniques or getting a clearer grasp on medical writing.

But it's not all learning – it's also about the people you'll meet.

This is your opportunity to build a network with like-minded individuals who are as passionate about advancing health care as you are.

By attending, you're also contributing to a larger cause: improving healthcare for mothers and babies all over the world, especially in areas that need it most.
